NOTES:

1. The upper division courses COMP 3XX are taught on an alternate year schedule. Because of this, students will have only one opportunity to take a particular Math 3XX course during their junior or senior year, and should plan ahead.
2. If a student can take MATH260 as freshmen, it is recommended that they do so.
3. Once COMP220 and MATH 260 are complete, the majority of COMP3XX courses are available to students. It is preferred that they complete two or more before beginning the 401-402 sequence as the topics covered in the 3XX course are meant to inspire ideas for capstone projects.

NOTES:

1. Student can manage a study abroad program either semester of their junior year. The above recommendation of the fall is arbitrary with respect to the junior year. Students should pay attention to 3XX offering as the courses missed while they're abroad will not be offered again for two years.
2. Recommended off-campus programs:
